FOOTBALL AT EXETER OPENS

COACH JONES WILL START SEASON'S PRACTICE AT ACADEMY THIS AFTERNOON.

Coach T. A. D. Jones of Phillips Exeter will start football practice this afternoon. The eleven has neither captain nor manager. George H. Lowe, Jr., who was chosen to the former office last fall, will not return to Exeter. Herbert M. Kempton of Malden, quarterback of the last two victorious eleven, will probably be Lowe's successor.

Joseph E. Clifton, 2d, of Charleston, W. Va., has resigned the managership. His schedule, as modified by Howard A. Ross, director of athletics, is as follows, all games unless otherwise stated to be played at Exeter:

Sept. 25, Gushing academy; Oct. 2, Dartmouth freshmen; 9, Worcester academy; 16, Yale freshmen at New Haven; 23, Yale second; 30, Princeton freshmen; Nov. 6, Harvard freshmen; 13, Andover.

It was rumored in Harvard square Cambridge, yesterday, that Eddie Casey, captain of the Exeter Academy football team last season and one of the best halfbacks in the preparatory schools, and who was expected to enter Harvard, will enter Yale.

Casey was at Sid Curtis' camp at South Sebago all summer with William Fitzpatrick, the star Exeter tackle and hammer thrower, who also, left Harvard and entered Yale.

Casey has been in Cambridge for the past ten days and during the past two days received four telegrams from New Haven.

Although Casey went to his home in Natick every evening, he always left his belongings in Cambridge, but Tuesday night he left, bag and baggage, without saying a word to anyone, which gives credit to the story that he has gone to New Haven. He also received a letter with a 12.30 a. m. postmark from his home in Natick, which shows that he went unexpectedly.

"Chet" Lavoche, the former Dorchester and Exeter star athlete, who has been at Cambridge for the past week, has also decided to enter Yale.

Much was expected of Casey, Fitzpatrick and Lavoche in sports at Harvard and their loss will cause a gloom there.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, Sept. 16.—James A. Gilmore, president of the Federal League, discharged a few broadsides in the general direction of the Federal league in answering O. B.'s "hannibal" of the Feds action in releasing players.

"Those fellows ought to observe the rulings of that motto about people who live in crystal balls shouldn't," he says, "said Gilmore. 'If the Federal League treated its players even once, it would be an injustice to organized baseball has treated ball players we'd like ourselves because of shame over our actions.'"

"We've never blacklisted a player, an organized baseball has done. We've never refused a player a job simply because he played in some other organization and we've never failed to pay every dollar that he's worth—and sometimes more. If a player in our league—a youngster just breaking in—shows that he is a real player we don't wait until he threatens to jump before we advance his salary. We give it to him voluntarily. We pay for value received—and we pay well. That's more than organized baseball is doing."

Ask Any Sickie Smoker Why

he sticks to Sickie plug and slices off each pipeful as he needs it.

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickie that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

"Before our advent, it was the practice of organized baseball to pay the players just as little as possible. The players had to accept what was offered to him or he was barred from baseball. The magnates in those days told the players that they were paying them all they were worth. Yet when we got into the baseball business they doubled and tripled the salary of these players, which shows that they originally had been paying the players only one half or one third of their real value."

"Since our inception it has been our rule to treat players fairly—and we have adhered to that rule and will continue to adhere to it. But we expect to deal fairly with us. We pay them to play ball—and we expect them to play ball. If they don't give us our best, if they insist upon dissipating there is only one end for them—release."

"Some of the players who came over to us from organized baseball figured that their future baseball career would be one long joy party. Their habits soon interfered with their ball playing skill. I sent warnings to these men, through the club presidents, that boozing would not be tolerated. The men, for the most part, ignored the first warning. Because I wanted to give them every possible chance, I sent a second warning. Some of the men observed that warning and quit dissipating. Others didn't—and they were released."

"There are in the Federal League right now about 25 ball players, secured from organized baseball who are of little use to us. But we are keeping them and will keep them until their contracts expire, simply because they are doing the best they can. Their efforts may be feeble ones, and they aren't of any real help to their club, but they are trying to earn every dollar they get, and we show our appreciation of their efforts by letting them stay."

"To keep those men means a loss of $100,000 a year to the magnates in the Federal League. But they are being kept because it's our policy to play fair with the men who play fair with us. Does anyone think that organized baseball would keep 25 men—or even one man—if that man was of no value to it?"

"And there's one thing more: we pay our men when their pay is due. We don't hold them off—nor do we pay them $10 or $25 on account on the regular pay days and promise to pay them the balance at some future date, as has been done frequently in organized baseball this year. If organized baseball challenges me to name specific instances where the pay of ball players was held up I'll gladly do so."

PLAYERS NAMED FOR SATURDAY'S GAME

Look this bunch of ball players over. These are the men who are going to play against the Salmon Falls team on Saturday, the team who has promised through its manager to come to Portsmouth and make a clean-up.

Tommie Pilgrim, Spilko Jordan and Bill Moran, pitchers.

Jack Bailey, catcher.

Harvey Alms, Walter Woods, Ralph Brackett, Tommie Butler and "Zip" Harrington, infielders.

Jack Timmons, Walter Mulholland, Doc Trefethen and Art Davis, out fielders.

If Salmon Falls walks away with Saturday's game, they will be some winners. They will make Weston look like a puffer. The game will start at 3.00 o'clock and should be about the finest show staged on the Portsmouth diamond that the Portsmouth fans had the opportunity of seeing. Get out early and show the rosters that are coming here with the visiting team that Portsmouth is "there" with the right kind of support.

HANS WAGNER LOGICAL SUCCESSOR OF FRED CLARKE AS PILOT OF PIRATE CREW.

CLARKE AND WAGNER

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16.—Now that Fred Clarke has definitely decided that he will bid goodby to the great American pastime after the present season the wisecracks are digging into the dope and the "fall uncult" trying to hit upon the Pirate chief's successor.

They are advancing reasons why this or that man would be an admirable choice, and about to a man they are overlooking the "one best bet," the man who not only is Clarke's logical successor, but also is the right man for the job from point of experience. "This man is none other than 'Old Honus' Wagner, who has served fifteen years with the Pirates. He came to the Buccaneers with Fred and has been in harness ever since. His knowledge of the game cannot be questioned, even by those who, for personal reasons, are espousing the causes of other candidates for the berth, and he would be a popular leader, too, for there is not a ball player or fan in the country who has not heard of "Old Hons" and who does not respect this quiet, pleasant vet. According to those in the know Hons is Clarke's logical successor, and unless all signs fail he is the man who will be at the helm of Henry Dreyfus' club next season."

BASEBALL COMMISSION HELD MEETING

CONSIDERS DRAFTS BY MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS ON MINOR LEAGUE PLAYERS

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 15.—Many prominent baseball men were present when the National Baseball Commission opened its annual meeting here today to consider drafts submitted by major leagues on minor league players.

Previous to convening, it was officially announced that while the drafting process would be carried out as usual, the names of the players drafted as well as those of the teams that obtained the players, will not be made public at this time.

It was stated by one "high in the councils of the commission" that the drafts would not be announced by the commission until every player drafted had been signed to a contract. This plan was adopted to outwit the Federal League.

OUTDOOR WRESTLING IN BOSTON

Boston, Sept. 15.—That the big outdoor wrestling tourney planned by Promoter George Toney to be held on Augustus Beaves' Plot has made a big hit is evidenced by the great interest shown in the opening series which will be held on Monday evening, Sept. 20, when Charley Cutler, the big Chicago grappler will hook up with the best available opponent, while three other pairs of stars will complete the remarkable program arranged by the well known promoter.

The electric light system which has been installed, will make the vision of the spectators as clear as if the contest was held under strong sunlight, while the dark background will bring out plainly the remarkable muscles of the great set of wrestlers who are to take part in the tourney.

The facilities for handling big crowds are excellent, but the promoter is noted for the smooth ways in which he has handled great audiences in the past without the slightest semblance of a hitch, and every provision will be made to uphold this reputation.

Sanitation on the Farm.

The New York state department of health is endeavoring to bring about better standards of sanitation on the farms and the effort should command the hearty co-operation of the residents of the country districts, not only on the farms but in the smaller villages, where sanitary conditions are in many instances no better than on the farms.

There has been considerable improvement in recent years along the line of sanitation in the country districts, but there is room for much more and the problem presents a large field for the activity of the health officials.

The disposal of wastes of every kind is the first step toward improving health conditions on the farm, which affords enough room for the convenient disposal of wastes, most of which are of value to the farm when put to proper use. All are familiar with the conditions that prevailed on the average farm in the old days, conditions which in too many cases have not been improved. There was too much in the vicinity of the house and well that threatened the health of the family. The throwing of dish water into the back yard was a common practice and is too common today on many farms. In many cases the hog pen is too near the house for health or comfort, convenience of feeding the hogs being placed above all other considerations. While such things are more common on the farms today than they ought to be, they are not so common as they once were. The spirit of improvement is reaching the farms and making itself felt with highly beneficial results.

The one thing that is doing more than anything else toward improving sanitary conditions on farms is the introduction of running water into the houses. This is not practicable in all places except at large expense, but in most of the hill sections there are brooks and springs from which water can be conducted to the house and barn, and farmers are improving this opportunity far more than they did in the old days when the well or the cistern was considered good enough. These improvements are made more for the sake of convenience and being somewhat up to date than with a view to improving the health conditions, which, however, are inevitably bettered.

The country districts pride themselves on good water and good air, but these do not prevail where the well is contaminated and the air is loaded with the fumes of the hog pen and the cow stables. The improvement of sanitary conditions on the farms is a good thing, and the farmers and their families can well afford to join hands with the health authorities in pushing it along.

It is reported on what seems to be good authority that a New Jersey College of Osteopathy has been selling diplomas at from $75 upwards. It is not pleasant to think of quacks being foisted upon the public in such a way, but there seems to be no limit to the audacity of some men and institutions. Happily, the authorities are getting "onto" this fraud, and the chances are that hereafter the cash "graduates" will not find smooth sailing in the practice of their "profession."

President Wilson is sticking to Washington and attending to business. He is wanted in numerous places for addresses, but just now he has more important matters on hand and all invitations are respectfully declined. He is an exceedingly busy man and his duties are not of the light-weight order.

The Mardi Gras festival at Coney Island to mark the closing of the season was a great affair. It drew an attendance of nearly 500,000 people and was strictly orderly in every way. But Coney Island and the other beaches will not be entirely deserted while the present brand of weather continues.

Some of the telegraph companies have made heavy cuts in their night rates for newspapers, a step that will be appreciated by the papers and the public, both of which will be materially benefited. Anything that aids publicity is bound to work to the advantage of the public.

William Jennings Bryan is reported to be ready to go to Europe and attempt to bring about peace. Unless he can exert more influence there than he does here he may as well stay at home.

The publication which contends that Congress is too large will never have the endorsement of men eligible to membership and ambitious to reap the fruits of their eligibility.

If this weather keeps up the volunteers at Plattsburg will find trench digging something of a hardship.

The prolonged hot spell is placing a strain on the memory of the "oldest inhabitant."

CURRENT OPINION

Teaching the Most Meagerly Remunerative of All the Professions.

Education is proclaimed as the melting pot for fusing European peoples into genuine Americans. Education is declared to be the common denominator of the fractional parts of our national being. Education is eulogized as the force which unites and inspires all other forces. Much truth lies in these metaphors. Education is the greatest force in American civilization.

We eulogize education and praise the American school system.

But we debate the teacher by making the teaching profession the poorest paid of all professions.

Let the American people transfer their enthusiasm and pride in the fact of American education to the factor in American education—to the teachers.

Let there be a campaign started in every commonwealth, from Maine to Washington, that as there shall be no village without an adequate schoolhouse, so shall there be no schoolhouse without an adequately paid schoolteacher. Adequate pay would in many cases be twice what it now is.—By Charles F. Thwing, President of Western Reserve University.

JAPS NOW SEEK ALLIANCE TO INCREASE NAVAL STRENGTH

Tokio, Sept. 15.—Sections of the Japanese press are calling upon the new government to go forward with two twin tasks of increasing Japan's naval strength and concluding an offensive and defensive alliance with Russia.

This question, so momentous for the future of the Pacific and the Orient, appears to have entered a new phase since the change of ministry. An extremely vigorous campaign is being carried on in its favor by the Russian press and copious extracts from the Petrograd editorials are being sent to Japan and reproduced here.

At times they are circulated by the Foreign Office, and experienced observers have found that this is a sign that Japanese authorities desire to influence public opinion on foreign questions in a particular direction.

The arguments which are in circulation from Russia have taken a much bolder and more open tone of late, and they bluntly state that a Russo-Japanese alliance is necessary if Japan is to carry through her policy in China and if she is to resist the anti-Japanese policy which is assumed to govern the United States administration.

Bearing in mind the action of the United States in notifying Japan that changes in the status of China which conflicted with the Root-Takahira agreement could not be recognized, the Russians argue in the Tokio papers that only by an alliance with Russia can Japan hope to avoid treaty revision after the war and retain her recent gains in Chinese territory.

The "revision" is clearly expected to come from the United States in connection with the new peace conference.

AN AFTERMATH OF CAMP LIFE

There is an old and true saying of "Get it to the marrow, the authors won't believe it." Evidently some member of the Stafford Guards of Dover, now designated as the Fourth Company, C. A. C., has heard this saying, but it is no reason that he should try and perpetrate a joke on the venerable military editor of Dover's only daily paper. After telling of the great achievements of the Dover boys in camp the writer concludes his article as follows:

"The breaking of camp at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the company marched from the fort to Portsmouth a distance of three miles in the hot, blazing sun, which was about the most severe task that they had to perform during their absence from this city. Yesterday afternoon was a desperate one for the company to take a three mile hike over the dusty road and there was scarcely a dry thread in their clothing when they came to a halt in front of the Portsmouth depot. After reaching the armory in this city they quickly went to their homes and but very few of them showed up at the army last evening."

Such a heartless proceeding on the part of Major Hoyt to march his command "three miles in the hot, blazing sun." If true, deserves the most severe condemnation and punishment and a military band from the upper city composed of Col. Charles Corson, Major W. Kirk Chadwick, Captain James Marshall, the military editor of the Democrat and Col. John W. Hogan of the Tribune, is in order to hold a court of inquiry.

The facts of the case are, however, that the trip from Fort Constitution, Newstead, to this city was made on the government steamer T. W. Morrison, a pleasant sail of three miles. The companies disembarked at Broughton's wharf and marched to State street, where the Dover and Laconia companies left the line and proceeded to the railroad station, the Exeter and Portsmouth companies going to the new armory of the latter company. The march of the Dover company did not exceed a half mile.

Daniel Quindland, who for many years was interpreter with Dog-ster's Minstrels and part owner of Quindland and Wall's minstrels, who has appeared in this city on various occasions, is a member of one of the vaudeville acts, appearing at the Portsmouth Theatre for the next three days. Mr. Quindland needs no introduction to the people of this city where he is well and favorably known.

THE MICAWBERS

Like Dicken's quaint character, too many business men are prone to sit around and "wait for something to turn up." And when it does it not infrequently has the shape and semblance of bankruptcy proceedings. Live business men make things turn up. They assert their right to thrive, and do. They recognize the value of newspaper advertising. They employ it as an effective weapon and grow and prosper.

CHECK FORGER CAPTURED IN MANCHESTER

Man Under Arrest Believed to Be Wanted in Other Cities Besides Portsmouth.

Inspector William Moher of the Manchester police force on Wednesday arrested a man giving the name of John McCarthy and claiming Augusta, Me., as his home, on the charge of passing worthless checks. The name given is believed to be fictitious, for McCarthy tallies with the description of the man who is wanted in Dover and this city for passing worthless checks on John A. Dennis and Andrew O. Caiswell, giving the name of John A. Sullivan.

McCarthy has been in Manchester for several days and several complaints of worthless checks being passed had been registered with the police.

When arrested several blank checks stolen from Mr. Smalley were found on his person. The Manchester inspector handed his man as he was attempting to put over one of his checks on an Elm street store clerk.

He is described as 32 years old, five feet six inches in height, thin, featured and medium complexion. McCarthy will be held by the Manchester officials till they can get in touch with the police of several other New England cities where the man is believed to have operated.

DANVILLE CORPS INSPECTED

By Department Inspector Miss Edith M. Paul of This City.

Five members of Storer Relief Corps of this city, including Department Inspector Edith M. Paul, President Marion B. Greene, Senior Vice President Nellie V. Moody, Junior Vice President Elizabeth Ballou, and Mrs. James Smith, motored from this city to Danville on Wednesday in the machine owned and driven by Mrs. Granville Burns of Marlboro avenue.

The party left this city shortly before 10 o'clock. Although the day was exceedingly hot the ride was a most pleasant one and one to be long remembered. The car was very nicely riding and Mrs. Burns proved an ideal driver.

Upon their arrival at Danville the Portsmouth delegation was entertained handsomely by Gen. Harrison Corps No. 61, of which Mrs. Mary Reid is president. A beautiful dinner was served at the lodge room which consisted of roast chicken and all the fixings, together with a lot of other good things.

Following the dinner a meeting was held during which Department Commander Edith M. Paul made her inspection of the corps there. At the close of the meeting ice cream and cake were served.

The Portsmouth delegation was entertained royally and are high in their praise of the ladies of Danville corps as hostesses. The trip was enjoyable one and all report the pleasantest time of their lives.

AUTOMOBILE PARTY HAS A CLOSE CALL

When Machine Rolls Down an Eight Foot Embankment and Turns Turtle

It is only by a miracle that Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cunningham of Portland escaped serious injury if not death when their heavy roadster machine ran off the Post Road and rolled down an 8-foot embankment turning turtle at Kittery Junction shortly after nine o'clock Wednesday evening.

They were en route from this city to Portland. After crossing the Portsmouth bridge they stopped a short time near the railroad station at Kittery Junction and then went on. After they rounded the corner at Hobbs and Sterling's store, Mr. Cunningham, who was driving, apparently lost control of the machine and it swerved to the left, crashed through the fence along the highway and tumbled down the embankment and turned turtle.

The machine went almost entirely bottom side up, leaving only a very small space through which the couple managed to crawl out from under the overturned machine, not injured the slightest. It was a miracle that both were not crushed to death. It is thought that the tonneau which was up saved their lives. A peculiar feature of the accident was that the only damage sustained by the car was slightly damaged rear mudguards. The headlights were unbroken and the windshield which was driven into the ground six inches was not even cracked. The frame was slightly bent. After crawling out from under the automobile Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham walked across the Portsmouth bridge into this city where they put up at the Hotel Rockingham for the night. This morning at the hotel they would not talk about the accident, refusing to see all newspaper men.

Today the machine was hauled from the ditch where it was overturned back on the highway by a crew of men from the Kittery garage. The car was only slightly damaged and the couple continued their journey to Portland. Elliott Moore, an eye witness to the accident, declares that although the machine was traveling at a low rate of speed, the couple in the car were going to change seats while it was stalled and it was at this time that the accident occurred.

Mr. Cunningham is a prominent architect of Portland and a nephew of Proprietor Cunningham of the Lafayette hotel in that city. Fortunately that the car did not plunge over the banking ten feet south of the spot where it did for had it done so the occupants would have met sure death, as the railroad tracks of the Boston and Maine run alongside of the highway there and the fall is one of 20 feet.

As to the number of mine-sweepers who have lost their lives through a German submarine, many have been killed by the explosion of the mines they were gathering, and in other cases the authorities have lost track of trawlers, drifters, and their crews. They have gone to sea, never returned, and left no trace of themselves. Still, this has not lessened the supply of volunteers for this dangerous work.

Once the war is over, the mine-sweeper will go back to his ordinary vocation as a fisherman, sailor or fireman.

At present the British Grand Fleet is resting in a spot unknown even to the Censor, for strange as it may appear, there are scores of telegrams which pass between the fleet and the Admiralty, and messages from our allies, which reach Whitehall without the Censor passing a line of it, or for the matter of that even seeing a word of it.

These messages record in so many curt words the day's doings of an army of the fleet. Sometimes the Admiralty and the military authorities consider that it is worth while sending these messages to the press; more often not they don't.

One of the messages seldom published in the work of the mine-sweeper, to announce that so many mines had been cleared on such a day in such an area would be valuable information to the enemy.

Competent authorities estimate that Germany has scattered about ten thousand mines in various waters controlled by the British fleet. Although a large number of them have undoubtedly been laid by trawlers flying neutral flags, many of them have just been thrown into the water at Helligland, at Ostend and at different points of the Baltic, and allowed to drift out with the tide in the hope that they would sink one of the British ships of war, or ships of commerce.

In the Baltic alone, Denmark, Norway and Sweden have picked up thousands of these mines which have been washed on their shores unprotected. And yet for their vast expenditure of over five million dollars in sea mines, Germany has little or nothing to show beyond the destruction of a few trawlers and a few neutral ships, as in the rare cases where British trading ships have been struck by drifting or stationary mines, the damage done has been of a more or less harmless character. The mine-sweeper, as one of the most valuable sections of the navy, can claim full credit for this.

Most of the work in clearing the seas of mines is done by trawlers which usually act in pairs. We have quite a large fleet of trawlers and drifters engaged in this work which is one of the reasons why fish is so scarce and dear. They set out at night

Motorcycle and Automobile Collide at Salisbury Square With Disastrous Results for Occupants

Frank Parquette of Pleasant street, Merrimac, was seriously injured, and George E. Bassett, 72 Waverly street, Everett, and A. M. Martin, 46 Thurman street, Everett, were seriously shaken up, sustaining cuts and bruises late Wednesday afternoon, when the automobile owned and driven by Mr. Parquette met in collision with the motor cycle operated by Mr. Bassett and having as a passenger, Mr. Martin.

The accident happened about 4.30 o'clock on the Salisbury Causeway, near the lane leading to the residence of Dr. Jacob P. Spaulding. This is a few hundred yards from the Newburyport side of Salisbury square.

Mr. Parquette was cut and lacerated about the head, legs, shoulder and back. Unless internal injuries of a serious nature develop he will recover. All three men were taken to the Anna Jaques hospital in Newburyport.

The automobile was going toward Salisbury, while the motor cycle was headed toward Newburyport. In the automobile was a woman who refused to give her name and who left the scene as soon as the men were taken to the hospital. She did not appear to be injured.

Mrs. Parquette was summoned to the telephone in Merrimac and stated she was not aware of the injury to her husband and did not know who the woman was accompanying him on his disastrous trip.

Those in the automobile claimed that at the time the accident occurred the motor cycle was on the wrong side of the road. The force of the collision threw the automobile nearly upside down. Both machines were quite badly damaged.

Mr. Parquette was semi-conscious and bleeding from the nose when taken to the hospital.

REGRET HIS DEATH.

Frederick J. Dunn Was Held in High Regards.

The following mention of the death of Frederick J. Dunn, formerly of this city, is made by the Biddeford Journal:

"Frederick J. Dunn, a young man well and favorably known in this city, died this morning about 7 o'clock in the home of a brother, John J. Dunn, on Summer street, aged 31 years. Death followed a long and painful illness with which the young man made a brave but ever losing fight and his death had been expected for some days. Mr. Dunn was born in this city, a son of the late Patrick and Mary Dunn. He is survived by two brothers, John J. Dunn, member of the board of education and of the clothing firm of Benoit-Dunn, and William E. Dunn, a druggist of Worcester, Mass. A sister, Miss Isabelle E. Dunn, of this city, also survives. Mr. Dunn was a druggist by calling and for a time worked in this city. For the past four and a half years he was employed at Portsmouth, N. H., with U. F. Green Co. This continued until a short time ago when failing health made it necessary that he give up the position. He was a bright, lovable young man with many friends who learned with much sorrow of his hopeless illness and death. He was a member of Biddeford Council, Knights of Columbus, and St. Mary's church. Funeral services will be conducted in St. Mary's church Friday morning at 9 o'clock."

During his residence in Portsmouth Mr. Dunn made many friends, who learn with much sorrow of his untimely death. During the time of his clerkship at Green's pharmacy, he was held in high regard by the patrons of the store as well as the employees and management.

GREAT BATTLE FOR RAILROAD POSSESSION

Both Wings of Russian Army Showing Strength in Struggle in the Vilna Region.

London, Sept. 15.—Both wings of the Russian army continue to make the operations of the Teutonic armies difficult. There is evidence that a battle of some magnitude for control of the northernmost trunk line to Petrograd and the strategic lines running behind the chief line of Russian defence soon will be fought. While Field Marshal von Hindenburg's cavalry is astride the Petrograd railroad and the Germans have made captures of prisoners and guns in Courland the Russians are again countering these efforts not only by checking the attempt of the Austrians to resume the offensive in Galicia but by inflicting another reverse on the Austro-German forces in the same vicinity. Sviatitskany, where the German cavalry cut the Vilna railroad, is half way between Vilna and Dvinsk and four hundred miles from Petrograd. The Russians assert that this by the Germans has formed a dangerous salient in their line, of which their opponents are likely to take advantage. Further along the line the German armies operating on both banks of the Niemen have not yet formed a junction, and Russian rear guards are still with drawing eastward.

Russians Extend Offense

Petrograd, Sept. 15.—A communication issued by the War Office says: "The German pressure in the regions of Lake Viskern and Santen and the village of Malski west of the line of Jacobstadt-Dvinsk continues. "In the region of the railway station at Podbroz German attacks in the region of Mischogola are characterized by great intensity.

"On the front from the region of Orany to the region of the village of Kossovo the enemy continues his persistent advance in an easterly direction. "More serious engagements have occurred in the region of the villages of Mstoy and Czernica, west of Stonim. South of the river Pina the enemy's cavalry fell back to the region at the ber of prisoners taken has been increased to more than 700.

"Southeastern theatre of war: Enemy attacks have been repulsed with sanguinary losses."

The following official statement from Austrian General Headquarters was issued last night: "confluence of the rivers Toula and Pilpet.

"Near Zwizalle, in the region of Deralno, we have successfully crossed the Goryn river and made progress fighting, capturing an entire Austrian battalion. In the regions of Deralno, and Klevan the enemy assumed an offensive which we checked. By an energetic counter-attack, we then advanced in the region west of Klevan where in fights near the village of Onesawa we took over 1300 prisoners.

"Yesterday the Russians in the region west of Wyszewicze repulsed the enemy from Rytonel and the adjacent neighborhood. The enemy, hurriedly retreating here, sustained great losses and was driven out of Postolac village. Up to the present the number of prisoners counted is 20 officers and 2000 men.

"Our fire checked attempts of the enemy who, in order to arrest our offensive, made a counter-attack in the region of the villages of Gontow and Dykower, southwest of Wyszewicze. We captured here also about 110 officers and 7500 men, one heavy and six light guns, four machine guns, twenty-six machine guns and much booty."

Poles Despair Over Warsaw

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 15.—What ever military strategists may decide is the actual importance of the Russian loss of western Poland and the fall of Warsaw, by the Poles themselves it is regarded as nothing but the bitterest tragedy. Six months ago the Russian Poles, in spite of their losses and suffering and the complete devastation of the most productive portions of their country, still clung hopefully to the promise which Russia had held out to them at the beginning of the war. But with the gradual encroachment of the German armies, this assurance has wavered, not so much because they doubted Russia's good faith as because they questioned her ability to enforce the Grand Duke's proclamation. With the loss of the Polish capital, it may be said that this waning hope which alone lifted Russian Poland out of absolute despair has expired.

In the recent retreat from the region around Warsaw, the Russian army, having learned a lesson from Lodz, where the resources of the city were converted to German use, decided upon a policy of destroying all property about whose use by the Germans there was the slightest question. It was hardly to be expected that the Poles, homeless, impoverished, and without any idea of where or how they were going to live, would preserve a judicially calm view of this action by the Russian army. Explanations regarding "strategic necessity" failed to impress men who had just seen their own homes razed by the Russian army and had received printed proclamations the very phrasing of which they considered an insult. This proclamation brusquely stated that "Polish cattle and men must immediately leave the regions along the front for points in the interior."

These wretched persons said that the Russian soldiers in their zealous execution of the orders they had received, had left nothing behind them except a blackened and scarred landscape whose very soil was ruined.

"High Jinks," a musical jollity which broke all of last season's touring records for musical entertainment, will be presented by Arthur Hammerstein at the Colonial Thursday evening.

Otto Hammerbach is the author of the book, and Rudolf Prini composed the score. Everyone associated with the production of "High Jinks" has won an enviable fame in his particular field, and this musical force is described as their joint masterpiece. Thus, Arthur Hammerbach has to his credit as a producer, "Naughty Marietta" and "The Piffles." Otto Hammerbach wrote "Three Twines" and "Madame Sherry." Rudolf Prini, who formerly was Jan Kubel's pianist, won his spurs instantly with the score of "The Piffles."

Added to these names, are the names of half a score of the brightest musical comedy entertainers that ever came from under the bright lights of Broadway, including Kathryn Milly, Cecilia Hoffman, Adrien Belkore, George Trimble, May Dorian, William Clifton, Harry Meyers, Bernard Govey, Tom Marks, and Dorothy Vernon.

"High Jinks," besides being the title of the musical force, is also the name of a single portion which has the property of making everybody wildly jolly. The perfume is the discovery of an explorer, Dick Wayne, who communicates its secret to his friend, Dr. Thorne, an American nerve specialist practicing in Paris. Dr. Thorne tests its magic on a pretty female patient, the wife of a fiery, delirious Frenchman. The young woman becomes so joyous that she throws her arms around the physician's neck and kisses him passionately.

But the husband of the young woman has been a witness of the scene. He puts in an angry appearance and demands satisfaction. Either the doctor must die or submit the pretty Mrs. Thorne to the seductive caresses of the Frenchman—long for long, kiss for kiss. The doctor decides for the latter alternative, but to save his wife from the indignity of paying the debt of honor, he engages a young actress to impersonate her, and flees with the beautiful Mrs. Thorne to a fashionable watering-place. The Frenchman puts in his appearance there, and so do others not expected. The fun of the farce mounts higher and higher, but is kept clean throughout. The score of this new comic opera includes such catchy numbers as "Something Seems Tingle-tingle-ing," "Jim," "Love's Own King," "I'm Through With Raining Romance," "Old Chet," "No Saw, But Later," "Come Hither Eyes" and "I Know Your Husband Very Well," which have found their way to the orchestras and the phonographs.

The company includes a large chorus of richly gowned girls, who live up to the picturesque stage settings, the frenzy of the perfume and the magic of the melodies.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

Complying with a general demand from the theatre-going public all over the United States, Oliver Morosco has sent out a number of companies in J. Hartley Manners' wonderfully successful comedy "Peg O' My Heart," which was the starring vehicle of Miss Laurette Taylor at the Cort Theatre, New York City, for two years. "Peg O' My Heart" is known in all parts of the civilized world by reputation, at least, and the role of Peg, so delightfully created by Miss Taylor, will live forever as a classic.

In selecting the company which is presenting this pleasing and fascinating comedy at the Colonial Theatre on Saturday, Mr. Morosco has really favored this city. Dorothy Mackaye fits the role of "Peg," exactly and is scoring a marvelous success in it. She was the happy selection of the producer himself and he predicts stardom for her in the future. The company is excellent all the way through and the production is an elaborate one in every detail. The secret of the truly remarkable success of "Peg O' My Heart" will be found in one of the witty remarks of Peg. It is, "Laughter is not dead in you as it is in everybody else in this house." It is laughter that has made this play the undoubted comedy triumph of the decade; it is sweetness and cleanliness that has enhanced its wonderful popularity.

"Peg O' My Heart" comes to the Colonial on Saturday and a capacity audience is assured.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"Neutrality," is the basic keynote of "The White Feather," the great war play, now running at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The story illustrates a battle of wits between the British war office and a quartet of German spies, adding a contemplated raid of submarines upon the English coast. As a coincidence, or perhaps a prophecy, the acting fits in closely with some recent events in which the warring nations are involved. The piece, however, rests for its success upon its purely dramatic interest, and is just the sort of play that may be thoroughly enjoyed by Germans, French, English and Americans. The opening scene shows the interior of an English boarding house located on a sea coast. The place is run by Mrs. Sanderson and her son, presumably British loyalists, but in reality spies of the German government. Christopher Brent, a careless and equally passive chap, unable to give any reasonable excuse for his failure to fight for the colors, is at the head of the British secret service and watches with keen eyes the attempts of the German spies to warn their Fatherland of certain British expeditionary forces. Brent is assisted by Miriam Lee, who lends invaluable assistance in unearthing plots and counterplots of the Germans. The play is staged in three acts and presented by William A. Brady, who corralled most of the original members. The piece is being presented with wonderful success in London. "The White Feather" is in Boston for a limited time only. Mail orders for seats are given prompt and careful attention. The scale of prices for this engagement range from 50 cents to $1.50. Thursday and Saturday are the regular matinees. On Thursday $1.00 is the top price for the best orchestra seats.

AT THE PRINCIPAL BOSTON THEATRES

GERALDINE FARRAR

In Photoplay "Carmen" to Be First Show in Boston Symphony Hall.

Boston is the first city in the United States selected by Geraldine Farrar for her debut as a motion picture star. Announcement comes from Symphony Hall that for a limited engagement beginning October 1, there will be shown there to the accompaniment of an orchestra of fifty at popular prices, the Paramount Picture "Carmen," produced by the Lasky Feature Play Company and in which the noted prima donna appears as the star in the title role.

Miss Farrar made the request that Boston be selected for the first city in which her motion picture, "Carmen," will be seen because it is her native city and because, in Symphony Hall, dedicated to the cause of musical art, the auspices of the premiere will be in keeping with the prima donna's serious purpose in entering this new field of animated pictures. Symphony Hall has a seating capacity of 2,500 and through the medium of the screen Miss Farrar anticipates she will reach an entirely new audience of Americans only a few of whom have seen her in opera or heard her on the concert stage.

"In opera, conditions are such that I appear only in New York for a few months and in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago a few weeks out of the year," said Miss Farrar recently. "But through the medium of motion pictures I will reach a new audience, a mighty population of millions before whom it has long been my desire as an artist that I should act. I believe motion pictures will make thousands of new friends for me."

It is probable that the manner of the presentation of "Carmen" in Symphony Hall will mark a new era in motion picture exhibiting. C. A. Ellis of Symphony Hall and Morris Gest, who completed the arrangements for the use of the magnificent building and Samuel Goldfish, executive head of the Lasky Feature Play Company has engaged S. M. Rothkopf to personally supervise the production of the photoplay. Mr. Rothkopf started New York a year and a half ago when he opened the Strand theatre, that city, said to be the finest and largest motion picture theatre in the world. Paramount Pictures are shown at the Strand. Hugo Rosenfeld will conduct the operatic orchestra.

Miss Farrar herself took a keen interest in the musical arrangements for her photoplay, "Carmen," and the Lasky musical staff at Hollywood, Cal., had the benefit of her advice and extraordinary knowledge of music, when she was at the studios all this summer acting before the camera. A complete operatic score for the picture has been arranged and the orchestra will synchronize with every scene and action of the picture.

"Motion pictures are wonderful," said Miss Farrar recently. "Before the camera one does not feel the limitation of the operatic stage. The proscenium of the photoplay is the horizon; the sun supplies the light, and nature's own hills, streams and trees furnish the scenic settings. It is wonderful."

Miss Farrar will attend the first showing in Boston.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE

If you would enjoy a thoroughly delightful evening's entertainment don't fail to see "Twin Beds," "Selwyn and Company's energetic comedy, now about to complete the first month of its engagement at the Park Square Theatre, Boston. Not in years has Boston enjoyed such a bright, snappy and breezy comedy. The piece is the joint work of Selwyn Field and Margaret Mayo, the latter author of "Baby Mine," and is presented in three acts full of clean, wholesome fun. From the rise to the drop of the curtain you will laugh upon laugh, that you not only cannot prevent your sides from aching. Such is the pleasant result of witnessing this charming comedy. The story is woven around the Hawkins, a young married couple, who reside in an up-to-date New York apartment. The wife possesses the rather displeasing faculty of innocent flirtation. In this manner she has acquired the acquaintance of Signora and Signor Monti, who also live in the house. Signora Monti, who has achieved a grand opera triumph and now singing at $2000 a night, following a struggling career as a cabaret singer at $18 per, becomes infatuated with Mrs. Hawkins and as an absolute proof of his profound admiration sings the aria from "I Pagliacci." The symptom alarms the Signora and irritates the sensibilities of young Mr. Hawkins, who prefers the quiet and loneliness of a real domestic life. Now the matter is finally embroiled much to the delight of the Montis, Hawkins, and others is told in three acts replete with wholesome laughter. The play is a positive mirth provoker even to the most critical playgoer. Announcement is made that "Twin Beds" will not be seen outside of Boston this season. Therefore if you anticipate this rare pleasure you had better arrange for your seats right now. Strict and accurate attention are given to all mail orders. The prices range from 25 cents to $2.00 and the regular matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

FACTS ABOUT WOMAN SUFFRAGE

1. Every equal suffrage state is adjacent to another equal suffrage state—that is, every state except Wyoming which has granted votes for women, had a opportunity to know beforehand how equal suffrage worked in one or more neighboring states.

2. In Illinois women can vote for Presidential electors and for all officers and on all questions not provided for in the State Constitution. In eighteen states of the United States women have school suffrage; and in four states limited suffrage on questions of taxing and bonding.

BAPTISTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Fifteen Churches Are Represented at the 87th Gathering Held in This City.

The 87th annual meeting of the Portsmouth Baptist Association was held at the Middle Street Baptist church on Wednesday with a good attendance. Fifteen churches are included in the association and nearly all were represented by their pastors and delegates.

The exercises opened at 10 o'clock with devotional services in charge of Rev. J. L. Davis of this city, followed by the reading of letters from the churches. Rev. E. E. Seaton of Somersworth gave an interesting address on "Northern Baptist Education Society." Rev. Earl B. Cross of Dover followed, the subject of his address being "Laymen's Evangelism." A discussion followed and the morning session adjourned at 12.30. Dinner was served in the chapel by the reception committee of the Middle Street Baptist church, consisting of Mrs. Ira A. Stevens, Mrs. John W. Shannon, Miss Mary Shannon, Mrs. C. Manning Ackerman, Mrs. Charles A. Wendell, Mrs. William O. Sides, Mrs. W. T. Lord, Mrs. Alfred Plummer, Mrs. Jesse Hunt, Earl French and Frederick Gardiner.

The afternoon exercises opened with a devotional service, followed by the annual sermon by Rev. C. V. Smith of Plakstow. Miss Clara Conners of Japan spoke on "Woman's Work Abroad," and addresses were given by Rev. D. S. Jenks of Franklin on "The Los Angeles Convention," and by Rev. W. P. Thomas, D. D., of Burma, India, who spoke on "The Kind of World Leadership Needed." A general discussion followed these addresses.

NEW BRIDGE OPENED.

Is Built Entirely of Steel and With Land Approach
Cost $120,000.

The new bridge connecting Kittery and the navy yard was opened to the public on Wednesday and fulfills a long felt want. The construction is entirely of steel. The structure comprises a railroad bridge, a roadway and a passenger walk combined, 200 feet long and 36 feet wide.

Work was started about a year and a half ago and has just been completed. The total cost of the bridge, together with the land approach and highway, was $120,000.

The walks are of cement, and the bridge is profusely illuminated by tungsten incandescent lights of the boulevard cluster type.

The old bridge, which has been in use since the yard was first opened, early in the nineteenth century, has been closed, and will shortly be removed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sylvester of Westbrook, Me., were visitors here today.

WANT TO MAKE GAY WHITE WAY

Business Men on Vaughan St. Working on the Plans.

A movement is on foot by the several business men of Vaughan street to make that thoroughfare a "Gay White Way" from Congress street to Hamover street. The plan is to put in cluster lights along both sides in addition to those already in place at the store of Margeson Brothers. It is understood that nearly all concerned are ready to go ahead with the project and that the city government and the electric light company are ready to do their part. This is the right spirit and there should be no hesitation on the part of any one to help along this improvement. Besides this, other improvements in the way of a cold storage plant, are being considered and the parties who have the matter in charge are working hard to bring the thing to a head.

TWENTY DEGREES COOLER AT THE COLONIAL

Remember, no matter how hot the weather is this evening, about the coolest place in the city will be the Colonial Theatre. When the big snow house was built, a system of ventilation, the best in the world was set in. The system will pull the warm air out from the top of the auditorium and air from the outside, after passing through a water cooled chamber, will be pulled in by means of big fans. The air inside of the Colonial theatre will actually be from eighteen to twenty degrees below that of the out-door air, and if necessary this can be made even greater.

The box office for "High Links" tickets will be open today from 5.00 to 9.00 a. m. and from 12.30 to 2.00, 5.00 to 6.00 and 7.00 until the show starts.

The man who insists upon the straw hat being called in on schedule time, is likely to get into trouble if this weather continues. Evidently some one has made a mistake or got crossed wires on the date.

Portsmouth Theatre

The People's Popular Play House

The Portsmouth Theatre offers the quality and not the quantity, which policy results in the crowding of the big playhouse nightly. In spite of the intense heat there was a larger crowd at the Theatre Tuesday evening than could be accommodated at any other play house. The bill offered for the last three days is especially strong. The acts are selected with due care for their ability to please. It took some effort to outdo the offer of the first three days, but it is believed that the public will appreciate the efforts to bring to Portsmouth some acts that are being offered in other cities at prices ranging from 25c to 50c.
